"I Serve"

The words employed as the title to this article constitute the motto of the Prince of Wales, and giving consideration to the splendid services His Royal Highness has rendered to the Empire during the years since he reached his majority, it is probably not far wide of the mark to say that no former Prince of Wales strove quite so diligently to live up to the motto of his house, Edward, Prince of Wales, served with the British armies in France throughout the war, not in some safe billet, but well within the battle zone. Since the war he has hardly had a moment's rest from the really exacting work of discharging the duties of a task which has been aptly described as "the Empire's ambassador to all the world." He has unquestionably rendered invaluable service in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India and elsewhere.

But in the work of empire, and in endeavor to create the best possible conditions for all people following the upheaval of the Great War, the Prince of Wales has no monopoly of the duty and responsibility of rendering service. Each and every citizen however humble their station in life has a like duty and responsibility and their own particular field in which to serve. And it is only to the extent that each individual citizen discharges that duty and gives service for the benefit of others that the desired betterment and progress in human relationships and conditions can be achieved.

Some men and women enjoy greater opportunities for service to their fellow citizens and to the extent that this is so their responsibilities are greater. Particularly it is necessary in these days that men and women entrusted with the administration of public affairs should be actuated with a keen desire to serve, because the consciousness of having served one's country and fellow men will, in all likelihood, be the only reward received.

Addressing the seven hundred or more Saskatchewan municipal reeves, councillors and secretaries-treasurer assembled in annual convention a few days ago, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Municipal Affairs, after reviewing the difficult financial conditions now confronting Western Canada, and sounding a note of optimism and encouragement, concluded his remarks by saying:

"Officials of municipalities have a duty to their people to perform a service. These are difficult days for men who are in public service whether it is municipal, Provincial, Dominion or Empire-wide. There is a psychology largely resultant from the history of the past few years which is passing over the whole world which will ultimately produce good results. There is only one thing for us to do, only one thing for those of us who are public servants to do. Keep on serving. That is the way the world will be saved. It will not be saved by theorists and shouters but by the men who stick to their job, do their duty and serve with the very best that is in them."

The absolute truth of this declaration cannot be successfully challenged. Any person in public life today who is merely striving to achieve some personal ambition, or to gain some selfish end, or is actuated by any motive other than a sincere desire to render service, will prove a failure. No matter how earnestly he may strive for the public good, and even though he give all his energies and the best that is in him, to the point of great worldly sacrifices and the ruin of his health, the strong probabilities are that he will receive but scant thanks from the people who placed him in office and whom he has diligently sought to serve. The public, as a rule, are ungrateful and the man of the hour today is rejected with scorn tomorrow.

The daily press teems with instances in support of this statement. Hardly a day passes but records the overthrow of some Government or statesman who has rendered long and valued service to his fellow citizens, while great strikes and industrial upheavals the world over indicate that countless masses of people are anything but ready to yield their quota of unselfish service to the welfare of all; rather selfishness seems rampant, each individual or group striving to attain their own ends regardless of the effect on other individuals and group or the nation as a whole.

The true and loyal citizen, and the one who in the final analysis will enjoy the satisfaction of the commendation of his own conscience—and that, after all, is the most lasting and supreme satisfaction—is the one who, regardless of temporary success, or the plaudits or sneers of others, sticks to his job and keeps on serving his country and fellowmen. Only so was the world saved through the great crises of the past; only so can it be saved now.

TRYING TO RUB OUT YOUR RHEUMATISM

It Can't Be Done—The Trouble Must Be Treated Through the Blood

The pain of rheumatism is something you cannot rub out. Every sufferer from rheumatism has been advised to rub this liniment or that on the affected part, but after all the rubbing the pain remained. Rubbing did not cure it and can't cure it.

This kind of rheumatism comes together and if they are properly treated they will go together. Rheumatism is in the blood—in poor watery blood. Sometimes cold, damp weather starts the aches and pains, but it is in the condition of the blood that is at fault, and only by correcting this, and making the blood rich and red can the rheumatic poison be driven out. This is what is done in the treatment of rheumatism with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Acute and muscular rheumatism show improvement as the thin blood is built up, and when the blood has been restored to its normal condition the trouble vanishes.

This is proved by the experience of Mr. John A. O'Neill, Port Hood, N.S., who says: "I was a periodical sufferer from rheumatism for years. I tried many remedies, but with indifferent results, and I had about concluded that the trouble was too firmly rooted in my system to be got rid of. While I was suffering from an attack a friend advised me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. I first got three boxes and by the time I had taken them I felt much better. Then I got three more boxes, and when I had taken them not only was the rheumatism gone, but I was feeling better in every way. If you suffer from rheumatism I strongly advise a trial of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Moving a Mountain

Task Undertaken by Engineers in Rio de Janeiro

Moving a mountain is the huge task undertaken by engineers in Rio de Janeiro, where the Morro do Castello—consisting of an estimated 7,000,000 cu. yd. of earth and rock—is being obliterated, the completion of which is expected to make the southern metropolis much more breezy, cool and healthful. Besides adding some 66 blocks to the heart of the city, various methods have been tried in the transporting of this mass from its present location and depositing it in the bay, among these being pick and shovel, mule cart, steam shovel, and "dinky or dummy train," all of which are described with full illustrations in the April Popular Mechanics Magazine. The presence of an old convent on the summit of the mountain has given rise to the rumor that gold is hidden near it, and causes added zest among the credulous workmen.

Results Of Investigations Showing The Milling Value Of Western Wheat Varieties

A report which summarized the results of investigations conducted by the field husbandry department of the University of Saskatchewan during the past eight years has been prepared by Manley Champlin and Cyril H. Goulden, and submitted to Dean W. J. Rutherford. This report shows the milling value of all of the important varieties of wheat grown in Saskatchewan and many of less importance which have been tried at the field husbandry plots at Saskatoon. The samples on which these investigations were based were grown at Saskatoon, so that they are all comparable on with another as far as environment is concerned.

As a result of this investigation it has been found possible to divide the several wheat varieties into groups, according to their milling value. Group No. 1, having the highest-milling quality, includes Marquis, Red Fife, Kitchener and Red Bobs. Group No. 2, having fairly good milling quality, but not equal to those above mentioned, includes White Bobs, White Fife and Taylor's Wonder.

Group No. 3 consists largely of bearded wheats. These have not usually given as favorable milling results as the second group. Group 2 includes Prelude, Pioneer, Chelsea and Preston, the Preston being only one in this group which is commonly grown. Group 4 includes the Ruby variety only. This variety has given such contradictory results that it is placed in a special class by itself and will be further investigated before definite conclusions can be arrived at as to its proper rating. Group 5 includes Club, Redstone, Alaska and Kinley. These wheats are of undoubted poor quality so far as producing flour suitable for the manufacture of bread is concerned. Club wheat is the only one in this group which is commonly grown, and, so far as has been ascertained, it is grown in but one or two localities in Saskatchewan at the present time. Alaska is the name given to a frequently exploited type of wheat which has been advertised as a remarkably high-yielding variety, but it has never been widely grown because of its poor milling quality and lack of resistance to disease.

Group 6 includes the amber durum varieties, among which are Kubanka, Acme, a selection of Kubank which is unusually rust-resistant, Pellissier, a black-bearded white chaff durum wheat, which, like the Acme, is decidedly rust-resistant. Of this list of varieties, Kubanka is by far the most commonly grown at the present time. Acme is to be tested at five different points in the province this year, under the supervision of the field husbandry department. The other varieties are less common. Milling investigations of durum wheat are rather meagre, but such as have been conducted indicate quite clearly that there is considerable variation in the value of the different varieties of this group.

Group 7 includes Red Durum (D-5), which belongs to the durum group, but is dark red in color, resembling the Red Fife in some respects. It can be distinguished from any of the bread wheat varieties by the fact that it has no brush on the kernels. The milling quality of this wheat has been investigated in the United States and found to be very poor. For that reason it is recommended that it would be better not to introduce it into Saskatchewan for fear that it may become mixed with the high quality varieties which are now grown.

Upon the whole, this report sub-

A Hundred Dollars Worth For Thirty-Five Cents

When you are awakened from a sound sleep by Cramps, when without a moment's warning pain springs upon you, it's then you would readily pay a hundred dollars for the quick relief you could secure from a thirty-five cent bottle of trusty old Nerviline. Nothing like Nerviline to relieve cramps, stomach gas, diarrhoea and kindred ills. Nothing better for Neuralgia, cold in the chest and sore throat. The price of Nerviline is thirty-five cents, no more, no less, in all stores where medicines are sold.

W. N. U. 1412

stantiated the conclusion that farmers who are growing Marquis, Red Fife, Red Bobs or Kitchener among the bread wheats are making no mistake, and that those who are growing Kubanka of pure type among the durum wheats have selected the best available variety so far as milling quality is concerned.

The factors considered in studying the milling have been loaf volume, color and quality of bread color and texture of flour, shape of loaf, general appearance and the amount of water absorbed. All of these factors are clearly shown in the report, and complete tabulated data are included, showing reasons upon which the conclusions are based.

The milling qualities of Saskatchewan wheat are pre-eminent. Whether or not this virtue can be capitalized and made to bring returns to the province, depends upon two factors. First, the ability of the growers to continue to grow high quality milling wheat of dependable varieties; and second, the ability of the marketing organizations, including elevator companies, the milling interests and the co-operative organizations who are concerned with the marketing of wheat in this province, to advertise and to make known the fact that Saskatchewan wheat is of excellent quality and to secure the premium which such wheat deserves and for which the consumer will gladly pay if he can be convinced of its quality and be definitely assured of receiving the genuine article.

Silk Farming

Ontario Man Starts Industry With 500 Mulberry Trees

Silk production promises to be a new industry for Ontario and Quebec farmers. Five hundred mulberry trees suited to requirements of the silk worm were planted in Middlesex County, Ontario, last autumn. By experimenting a tree has been produced which is adapted to the climate of Canada and United States. It bears no seed or berry, being grown solely for the leaf, and is the result of very careful grafting of mulberry cuttings on orange orange roots. Albol Harris, of Berry, London Township, Middlesex County, imported 500 trees from New Orleans, and planted them. He has also ordered 500 more as he has set apart five acres for their development. These trees cost $1.25 each if 1,000 are purchased, but all that have been planted are doing splendidly. Mr. Harris states he will be satisfied if he realizes $100 per acre this year.

Silage Crops Can Be Safely Stored In An Economical Trench Silo

At the recent dairymen's convention at Regina, Mr. G. H. Hutton, superintendent of agriculture and animal industry of the C.P.R. department of natural resources at Calgary, gave an interesting description of a trench silo. He said:

"During recent years it has not been a very serious problem to make money in dairying, inasmuch as the prices of butter and cream and whole milk have been ruling relatively high during that time, and the man who gave his business the serious consideration which it should receive has been able to show a satisfactory return on his investment.

"However, with the decline in values of all dairy products which has taken place during the last 12 months, and which, according to certain forecasts, will continue for another six months, the question of reducing costs of production becomes a very live and important problem.

"Cattle give best results when supplied with an abundance of succulent fodder. June pastures have frequently been named as the ideal condition for economical production of milk and beef. If by a system of pickling grasses or similar fodders we can make them available for a much longer period or even during the entire season when good grass is out of season, we will have accomplished a result which will contribute toward the production of maximum quantities of milk and butter fat at minimum costs. Such a result can be achieved by the use of silos and silage crops.

"The sunflower will set aside some of the objections which might be raised to the other ensilage crops. First, it is superior to corn for dry areas, as it outyields that crop during years of low precipitation. It is a crop which responds quickly to an increase in rainfall or to irrigation, as we have secured yields of over 34 and a half tons of sunflowers to the acre on irrigated ground, while this season we secured a yield of 12 tons to the acre on dry land and during a very dry season. Second, on the other hand the sunflower crop germinates and grows at a lower temperature than corn, and resists frost in spring and fall, thus enjoying in this climate a much longer growing season than corn.

"This crop, because of its weight per cubic foot, can be safely stored in the trench silo. Such a type of silo brings this class of fodder within the reach of thousands of dairymen. It means more than this to many farmers, for many of them will now be enabled to engage in mixed farming, keep dairy cattle, and thus stay on the land and get on their feet, whereas prior to the advent of this crop they were facing defeat and despair.

"In recommending the trench silo, I do not for a moment disparage any of the types of silos now in use as a means of storing feed. They have one disadvantage, however, and that is that they cost money. The trench silo affords a method of storing feed which is inexpensive apart from labor and most men who are struggling to get on their feet are willing to make an expenditure of their own labor in order to achieve success.

"The quality of the feed so stored appears to be quite equal to that stored in the ordinary silo. It may be argued that there is a certain loss of moisture by drainage, and the point is doubtless well taken.

"I am certain that the silage stored in the trench will give excellent results, as we are now feeding some sixty-five late summer and fall calves in the open sunflower silage from the trench silo. These calves are making excellent growth, and I have seen no thrifter lot this year nor at any time. My argument is, therefore, that even though there may be some loss of food value through moisture which drains away from the trench silo, the fodder which remains is highly nutritious and superior to any fodder ordinarily available.

"The method of construction of the trench silo is simple. It consists of an excavation on a fairly well-drained site. It is not lined with cement or lumber, nor is it provided with curbing to permit the filling of the silo above the surface. It is simply an excavation. It is about eight feet deep, sixteen feet wide and can be as long as desired, depending upon the size of the herd and the material to be stored. It is fed off one end, like a loaf of bread. The daily capacity per animal is from forty to fifty pounds, depending on the quantities of straw, hay or grain, if any, which is being fed. The weight of a cubic foot of ensilage in a trench will average 35 pounds, and based on the above figures the length of the silo required to accommodate sufficient feed for the herd can be readily determined. The cutting box was set up outside the trench, and a short length of pipe and the hood provided the necessary pipping. The silage was distributed and well tramped. This year the trench was filled only to the level of the ground, when it was well covered with straw from an old stack bottom. I think it would be an improvement to round up the silage above the level of the ground a couple of feet, keeping it well tramped for two or three days. When the silage has finished settling the trench would then be approximately full. The straw or other covering to be used could then be put on. The trench method of storing has kept the silage with practically no loss and the quality of the fodder, as I have already said, is first-class.

"Conditions demand the strictest economy in the handling of any of our fodder propositions, and if the dairyman is prepared to do some manual labor in the way of cutting the crop by hand, the only equipment that he will require in order to provide his stock with ensilage in abundance is a cutting box, the purchase of which could be handled by the community or a group of farmers, so that the cost would be a very small amount for each member of the 'Silo Association' as it might be termed.

"In conclusion I simply want to point out that this matter has been sufficiently tested to remove doubt as to its feasibility. We have at hand in Western Canada means by which the cost of production of dairy products can be reduced twenty to thirty per cent. In areas which have been dairying under former methods, which includes practically all Western Canada. Figures indicate in the cost of production of dairy products in the three prairie provinces would mean a saving of nine million, six hundred and sixty-six thousand dollars."

Passing the Buck

Axel, a Swede in an outfit at Fort Jay, woke up one morning with a desire to loaf. He got put on sick-call, thinking it was worth trying, anyway. At the dispensary the doc looked him over, felt his pulse, and took his temperature. Then he said:

"I can't find anything wrong with you."

No answer.

"See, here, what's wrong with you anyway?"

"Doc," replied Axel. "That bans your job."—American Legion Weekly.

Saskatchewan Led in Field Crops

Among the provinces Saskatchewan led last year in the value of field crops, the total for Saskatchewan being $265,520,000. Ontario came next with $236,907,000, followed by Quebec with $192,773,000; Manitoba, $92,128,000; Alberta, $83,985,000; New Brunswick, $38,501,100; Nova Scotia, $23,992,500; British Columbia, $20,962,000; Prince Edward Island, $16,530,500.

DISTRESS IN THE THROAT CAUSED GREAT ANXIETY

Not an uncommon experience, was that of Mrs. H. S. Wilmet, of Shulee, N.S.: "Many remedies failed, still splendid results were obtained by Catarrhazone." I have been a most dreadful sufferer from Bronchial trouble and Catarrh. On damp days, I would hawk and suffer great distress in my throat. I used all kinds of medicines but didn't get permanent relief till I used Catarrhazone. It strengthened my throat, stopped my cough, and made me well." Try Catarrhazone yourself—see what wonder it works on a bad throat, or cold, catarrh, bronchitis. Different from the old way, because you breathe Catarrhazone. ICE INDUSTRY AT BANFF

ICE OPERATIONS ON BOW RIVER AT BANFF

The winter season at Banff, Alberta, gives opportunity for the production of an extensive ice industry. It is unique as the only industry of its kind west of Selkirk, Manitoba. The ice-field on the Bow River is a hive of industry in the winter time. It is a track two miles in length and is leased for ten-year periods. Operations begin as soon as the river freezes over, in the care given to keep the space clear of snow. The ice is marked by a line two inches deep into cakes 22 by 44 inches. An ice channel is made at one side of the river and the cakes are floated up to a bench for loading.

About 60 men are employed in the work each season and they use such implements as a splitting bar, a pick-pole for directing the pieces up the channel, an ice saw for sawing the cakes 28 inches down, following a two-inch mark that is made early in the season around each piece. An ice needle is used for splitting the blocks at the bench and the ice monkey grasps the cakes out of the ice channel and carries them up for loading. Ten cakes at a time are floated down the ice channel, each weighing about 900 pounds. The output is about 25 cars a day and will be about thirty thousand tons for the season. Each car holds 44 tons, and is shipped over the Canadian Pacific Railway.

British Columbia is thus supplied with ice. It is used in the Okanagan Valley, at Kamloops, and the coast cities. It is of great service in caring for British Columbia fruit such as in refrigerator cars, and is used on dining cars as the purest ice that can be obtained.—C. G.

STOMACH TROUBLE? INDIGESTION?

Here's Good News for You

Lindsay, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine I have ever taken for stomach trouble. For many years I suffered with gastric stomach trouble and nervous indigestion. Would be so bad at times that it was necessary for me to be in bed two or three days at a time. I have doctored and taken many different medicines with little relief. Just recently I began taking Golden Medical Discovery and it has given more relief than all the other medicines I have ever taken. My stomach does not bother me and I have not had any indigestion since taking this medicine. I can highly recommend the 'Discovery' to others who suffer with stomach trouble." Mrs. Geo. "Have you thought it over, Beulah?" he said. "I have no right, as matters stand, to give or take a promise. I have no right."

You have no right to say 'as matters stand' as though matters had anything to do with it. They haven't Jim. No, I have not thought it over. This isn't something you think. It is something that comes to you when you don't think, or in spite of your thinking. But it's real—more real than these bars, which are not so close as you seem to fancy—

And then, between the iron rods across the open window, his lips met hers.

"And you were seeking life, Beulah," he said at last. "Life that you should live in your own way, for the joy of living it. And—"

"And I have found it," she answered, in a voice low and thrilling with tenderness. "I have found it in you. We shall work out our destiny together, but we must keep our thoughts on the destiny, rather than the work. Oh, Jim, I'm just dying to see your homestead—our homestead. And there are two windows." We must have two windows, Jim—one in the east for the sun, and one in the west for the moonlight.

"Our house is all windows, as yet," he answered gaily. "And there isn't as much as a fence post to break the view."

"What are you doing here?" said a sharp voice, and Beulah felt as though her tin box were suddenly sinking into a great abyss. She turned with a little gasp. Sergeant Grey stood within arm's length of her.

"Oh, it's Sergeant Grey," she said, with a tone of relief. "I am Beulah Harris. And I've just been getting myself engaged to your prisoner here. Oh, it's not so awful as you think. You see, we knew each other in Manitoba, and we've really been engaged for quite a while, but he didn't know it until tonight."

For a moment the policeman retained his reserve. He remembered the girl, who had already cost him a deflected glance, and he reproached himself that he could doubt her even as he doubted, but how could he know that she had not been passing in fire-arms or planning a release?

"What she says is right, sergeant," said Travers. "She has just broken the news to me, and I'm the happiest man in Canada, jail or no jail." "There was no mistaking the genuine rink in Travers' voice, and the policeman was convinced. "Most extraordinary," he remarked, at length, "but entirely natural on your part, I must say. I congratulate you, sir." The officer had not forgotten the girl who clung to his arm the morning before.

"Hang me, sir," he continued, "there's luck everywhere but in the Mounted Police."

He unlocked the door of the cell. "I ought to search you," he said to Beulah, "but if you'll give me your word that you have no firearms, weapons, knives, or matches, I'll admit you to this—drawing room for a few minutes."

"Nothing worse than a hat-pin," she assured him. "But you must come, too," she added, placing her hand on his arm. "You must understand that."

He accompanied her into the cell, but remained in the doorway, where he suddenly developed an interest in astronomy. At length he turned quickly and faced into the darkness.

"Speaking not as an officer, but as a fellow-man, I wish you were damned well—that is, very well—out of this old chap," he said to Travers.

"Oh, that's all right," Jim assured him. "You couldn't help taking me up, of course, and for all your kindness you would quite cheerfully hang me if it fell to your lot. But it isn't going to."

"I stand ready to be of any service to you that is permissible."

"The inquest is to be tomorrow, isn't it?" asked Beulah. "I think you should be at the inquest, Jim."

"That's right," said the sergeant. "You may throw some new light on the case."

"I've just one request," said Travers. "You know Gardiner?"

"I've heard of him."

"Have him at the inquest."

"As a juror or witness?"

"It doesn't matter, but have him there."

"All right. I'll see to it. And now, Miss Harris, if you will permit me, I will bring your horse for you."

Grey took a conveniently long time to find the horse, but at last he appeared in the door. Beulah released her fingers from Jim's and swung herself into the saddle.

"Sergeant Grey," she said, "I think you're the second best man in the world. Goodnight."

The sergeant's military shoulders came up square, still, and he stood at attention as she rode into the darkness.

CHAPTER XX.

An Inquest—And Some Explanations

The inquest party consisted of the coroner, who was the doctor that had already attended the dying Sergeant Grey; six jurors, selected from the townspeople; the manager of the bank, whose suspicions had first been communicated to Grey; Travers, and Gardiner. In the early morning the policeman had ridden out to the ranch for Gardiner, but had not met him on his way to town. News of the tragedy had reached him, he said, and he was hurrying in to see if he could be of some assistance to Travers, in arranging for a lawyer, or in any way that might be practicable. Grey told him that as yet no formal charge had been laid against Travers; that he was merely being held pending the finding of the coroner's jury, and suggested that if Gardiner would accompany him to the inquest he might be able, not only to throw some light on Travers' character, but also on his whereabouts on the night of the tragedy. To this Gardiner readily agreed.

It was noon when the party reached the Artbur's ranch. Beulah counted them out with a field-glass while they were still miles down the valley, and a bit later was set in the bank-house where the cowboys were accommodated during the branding season.

It was a matter of course that the men should wait until the party reached Artbur's. At intervals in the setting of the table the girl returned to her field-glass, until she was quite sure of the straight figure standing beside the mounted policeman.

They swung into the yard amid a cloud of dust, the flange of trappings, and the hearty exchange of greetings between Artbur and his acquaintances from town. Gardiner was introduced to Artbur, and shook hands without removing his gun. He had learned that the party were to have dinner here, and he excused himself, saying that the long ride in the heat had upset him, but as the officer thought he would be wiser to lie in the shade for an hour or two before he had pressed his hospitality upon him, but as the officer seemed fixed in his purpose he did not insist. Then the rancher walked over and shook hands with Travers. There were no signs of handcuffs now, and an outsider would not have known that the young man's position differed from that of the others present.

After the meal Gardiner joined them again, and the party, which now included Artbur and Harris, proceeded up the valley to the scene of the tragedy. It was a great shock to Harris to find that the victim of Allan's gun was his old neighbor, Riles. He stood for a long time as he gazed by the discovery, but gradually out of the confusion a horrible fear took shape in his mind. Allan had shot this man, with whom they had an appointment at this spot; had shot him down, as far as could be shown, without excuse or provocation, before he had so much as entered the door. The body proved to be unarmed, and from his position had evidently fallen into the building after receiving the fatal charge.

The old man turned dry eyes from the gruesome thing across the warm, shimmering valleys. On the farther slopes, leagues distant through the clear air, ripening fields of wheat lay on the hillside like patches of gold. The old man of commerce, who had seen the virgin prairie in his first black days of commerce, and who had seen none of these. He saw Allan, and he saw bars, and a prisoner's dock. And there was something else that he would not see; he would close his eyes; he would not let his hand thrust himself into his vision!

After thorough examination of the scene they laid the body in a demerol and returned to Artbur's, where the coroner held his court in the bank-house.

Harris's evidence was first received. He found it difficult to give his story connectedly, but item by item he told of his acquaintance with Riles in the eastern province; of their decision to come west and take up more land; of the chance by which they had fallen with Travers; of the fact that he had had before them of more profitable returns from another form of investment; of how his hesitation had been overcome by the assurance that all he need do was have his money ready—he was to be under no obligation to go any further in the transaction unless absolutely satisfied; of the offer by the New York capitalists; of the sale of his farm for a disappointing sum, and their journey west, the money they had lost shanty up the valley, where they were to be met by Riles and Gardiner, and also, as they expected, by the owner of the mine, with whom they would

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. Moose Jaw Member Deals With Problems Of Grain Marketing

Ottawa.—Debate on the address saw participants from Ontario and the West. R. M. Johnson, Progressive, Moose Jaw, thanked the Government for the reforms promised in the speech from the throne, even though, as set forth, they left a good deal to the imagination. He expressed the hope that the business barometer would continue to rise and that the improvement would be permanent. Business conditions in the West had been adversely affected by the tariff restriction in the United States. This had been very serious for the livestock industry, though not so much for grain-growing. The people of Canada were not responsible for the imposition of these restrictions, but he wondered whether those restrictions would have been imposed if the Canadian people had accepted the measure of freedom of trade which was offered to them in 1911. (Liberal applause.)

Dealing with the problem of grain growing, grading and marketing, Mr. Johnson said that the greatest blow that had ever been given to Western agriculture was the greater production campaign of 1918. The farmers had desired to respond to that appeal and to raise as large crops as possible. But nature could not be driven and when an effort was made to do so, the result would not be what was expected, while future returns would be handicapped. The present system for the physical handling of grain could not be, he thought, bettered, but he was speaking, he believed, for all in his section of the House when he said all opposition to the establishment of a wheat board had not been swept away. He did not mean that the wheat board system was perfect. He was disposed to agree that a voluntary co-operative system of control would be better. But the farmers were still living in abnormal times and they could not afford to wait for normal times for that ideal. He believed that 90 per cent. of the product of last season would be sold at less than the actual cost of raising it. He approved of the proposal to have the suggestion for the establishment of a wheat board investigated by the agricultural committee, but the country could not afford to wait for that investigation.

Pain In Her Arm Is Now All Gone

MRS. STANTON RECOMMENDS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Woodstock Lady whose Rheumatism has Vanished Tells why She Believes in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Woodstock, Ont.—(Special).—Mrs. John Stanton who lives on R. R. 1 near here is never tired of telling of the benefit she received from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"About four years ago I had rheumatism in my left arm," Mrs. Stanton states. "It was so painful I couldn't dress myself."

"I read about Dodd's Kidney Pills and what they had done for others, so I sent and got six boxes. They did me good right from the start. The pain is now gone, but I keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house as I have an occasional touch of lumbago and they help it a lot. They help my husband's head too."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best known and most reliable of kidney remedies. They heal the kidneys. Sound kidneys strain all the uric acid, the cause of rheumatism, out of the blood.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make healthy kidneys.

Daylight Saving in Britain

London.—"Summer time" in Great Britain will begin March 26 and end October 8. An order to this effect has been issued to secure uniformity in time with France and Belgium.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

Arrest of Gandhi Causes Grave Concern

Durban Natives Believe He Helped Preserve Peace in India

Durban.—The Indian Congress of Natal in protest against arrest in India of Gandhi, the civil disobedience leader, attempted to precipitate a general strike in Natal industries. The attempt, however, has proved only partially successful. The East Indians here in Durban adopted a resolution recording their grave concern over the arrest of Gandhi, and expressing belief he had been largely instrumental in preserving peace in India.

Zanzibar, Island of Zanzibar.—The East Indians here have declared a one-day hartal in protest against the arrest of Gandhi, no disturbances marked the observance of the hartal.

No Medals for Home Services London.—An announcement in the House of Commons that the army council had decided not to grant medals for home services during the war, was received with cheers. The Secretary of State for War, Right Hon. Sir L. Worthington-Evans, was reminded that special constables had received medals, and he replied that they were not army medals.

HALIFAX EXPLOSION WRECKED HER NERVES

The reader will, no doubt, remember when a few years ago there was a collision in the Halifax, N.S. Harbor and one of the munition ships was blown up, causing great loss of life and laying a large portion of the city in ruins, and causing a great deal of suffering and distress among the inhabitants.

Mrs. Winfield Dill, now of Windsor, N.S., was living in Halifax at that time and went through this trying experience and the shock wrecked her nerves. She writes as follows:—"I was living in Halifax at the time of the explosion, and it wrecked my nerves so that I could not do my household work. I would take such nervous spells I would be under the doctor's care."

I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, so I took two boxes, and they helped me so much I took six more, and now I am completely relieved. I can recognize them to any one suffering from heart and nerve trouble."

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend our MILBURN'S

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the original heart and nerve food having been on the market for the past 27 years. Price, 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Manitoba Election Predicted in June

Polling Probably Deferred Until Seeding is Finished

Winnipeg.—A provincial election in June is the prediction of political observers, following the defeat of the Norris Government in the Legislature. The election could not be brought on in less than seven weeks, it was stated by Frederick Axford, clerk of the executive council, and it is held to be probable that the active campaign and the polling will be deferred until seeding is completed in the province.

China's Trade Outlook Considered Serious

Business Conditions Paralyzed by Strike of Seamen

Victoria, B.C.—Trade depression is noticeable throughout the Orient, and in China, the outlook is serious, according to F. W. Peters, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, British Columbia division, who reached here from Hong Kong by the liner Empress of Russia.

Business conditions in China were virtually paralyzed by the strike of Chinese seamen at Hong Kong, said Mr. Peters. The Chinese Guilds have control, and now include all branches of Chinese labor. In Japan, Mr. Peters found competition keen. Much shipping, however, is tied up, owing to lack of cargoes.

Proposed Plans To Increase British Army By Further Enlistments

London.—Risks involved in the reduction of the army, in the opinion of the war secretary, Right Hon. Sir Laming Worthington Evans, were outlined by him in introducing the army estimates in the House of Commons. He said the proposed personnel of 152,000, excluding the troops on the establishment in India, showed a reduction of 29,000, compared with the number in 1914, when there was behind the army a reserve of 146,000 men, and 55,000 militia. The reserve today, he said, was 65,000 and no militia, but there was a large potential reserve of war veterans.

Sir Laming said he proposed to strengthen the reserve by enlisting key men and make a fresh start with the militia at a cost of £1,000,000. Dealing with the risks incurred in consequence of the reduction, he said the army might be called on to reinforce the forces of the crown in India. In certain eventualities, reinforcements greatly exceeding the proposed future estimates might be requested. Sir Laming hoped that a sound policy and wise administration would justify running whatever risks were involved in reducing the army.

Resents Interference Of Viceroy

London.—A dispatch to the Central News from Belfast says Sir James Craig, replying to a question in the Ulster Parliament asserted that the Londonderry prisoners had been relieved over the heads of the Ulster Government, and that if there were further interference with the courts by the viceroy, he would resign.

Belfast.—The Belfast Telegraph declared that the police murders were committed to deter the Royal Irish Constabulary from joining the Ulster forces. The newspaper charged that the campaign was specially directed against Roman Catholic members many of whom already had intimated their intention of serving the Northern Parliament.

The Telegraph reports a document found by Sergeant Clark, contained the names of 12 policemen who had been marked for assassination and all of whom had expressed their willingness to re-enlist.

Railway News
in Brief

Vancouver, B.C. — The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has called for tenders for the construction of a new bridge across the Coquitlam River to replace the old one washed away during the heavy floods of November. The new structure, which will be built of steel, is to be about 300 feet long with concrete piers. The concrete abutments will be placed further apart than in the former structure to make more allowance for another possible swelling of the river. The new Coquitlam bridge, when completed, will be one of the most substantial examples of bridge construction on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Vancouver. — The fifteen-storey bulk of the Hotel Vancouver is familiar to all visitors to Vancouver. But all the people who pass it each day and the many who have stayed in the hotel, it is probable that not one in thousands realizes just what a tremendous enterprise the hotel is.

To run the hotel—which has approximately 600 rooms—requires a year-round staff of about 400 employees. The comparatively small matter of keeping paint work and kalsomining in spotless condition and cleaning the ornate plaster work around the rotunda requires the continuous services of five painters and ten helpers.

These men are hard put to it to keep ahead of the dirt which is brought into the hotel on the smoke-sooted shoes of the thousands of travellers, that the majority of the large number of employees pass their days. In the engine-room where light and power for the hotel are made there are five engineers: a chief, three third-class and one fourth-class. There are four stokers, four ashmen, two shovelers and two truckmen.

Then there are basement cleaners, store-room men, four kitchen cleaners, two printers for menus—a yardman, an iceman, five food checkers and three men on foot control. It is the duty of the last named to see that every ounce of food which leaves the storerooms is tabulated, and that each of every day the profits on dining-room operation can be instantly checked.

The kitchen is the largest unit of the hotel. Here there are a chef with forty-eight assistant cooks to serve the dining-room and grill. For the lunch counter there are three separate cooks. Two of the cooks do nothing but broiling, three do nothing but frying, three cook vegetables exclusively and there are six pastry cooks. In addition, there are cooks for boiling eggs, some who make tea, others for coffee, one man who spends his life making toast and another whose sole duty is to clean and open oysters.

The quantity of food necessary to feed the guests in one day would appal the average housewife. No less than ninety dozen eggs are used daily. Between 3,000 and 5,000 lunch and dinner rolls are baked each day. To butter these, and for cooking, 100 pounds of creamery butter are used each day. Carrots are consumed at the rate of 100 pounds a day and between 800 and 1,000 pounds of potatoes are used each twenty-four hours. Other vegetables are used in quantities of from fifty to 500 pounds according to how many guests there are in the house.

It takes from eighteen to twenty gallons of cream, fifty gallons of milk and from 175 to 200 pounds of poultry each day to satisfy the demands of the guests. Winter and summer the ice plant of the hotel turns out ten tons of ice each day. Even buying at lowest wholesale prices, food alone costs the hotel from $1500 to $2000 daily.

William found a pocketbook

But the string jerked it back

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they came to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

The drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, is a nerve stimulant. Constant stimulation of the nerves often produces rebellion that takes the form of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, high blood pressure. That's the string to tea and coffee.

Oldest Post Office in United States

Building at St. Augustine, Florida, Was Erected in 1568

Erected in 1568, the post office building at St. Augustine, Florida, is believed to be the oldest structure of the kind in the country. According to official records in the "Archives of the Indies," at Seville, Spain, it was purchased by the King of Spain in 1604 from Gonzalo Mendez, former governor of Florida, who erected it, for $10,000 as a residence for Gov. Pedro De Yderra and his successors. In requesting that the purchase be made, Gov. Yderra wrote the king that the house in which he lived was built over the ruins, and was so cold and damp that two former governors had died in it.

Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy, such as Miller's Worm Powders, which are sure death to worms.

Rent for Fighting Ground

A Viewpoint on the Question of Paying France for Use of Docks

Great Britain, it appears, paid France the huge sum of 25 million pounds as rental for docks, buildings and trenches used or occupied in connection with the British military operations in the recent war. A critic suggests that this is the first instance on record of one country paying rent for trenches in which to fight to defend the country owning the ground. That is not a candid statement of fact. Britain was not fighting France's battle, but its own. That it did the fighting in France, and not in Britain, was a piece of good fortune for which even the sun cited is a cheap price. It is likely, too, that the British authorities saw in this means a way to give some financial help to a hard-pressed ally whose sense of independence would not permit it to accept a straight gift.—Edmonton Bulletin.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipation—that disordered state of the digestive tract which is nearly always caused by improper feeding—can be readily regulated by the use of Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They are easy to take and are absolutely free from injurious drugs. Concerning them Mrs. Joseph Dion, Ste. Perpetue, Que., writes:—"I have nothing but praise for Baby's Own Tablets. When my baby was three months old he was terribly constipated but the Tablets soon set him right and now at the age of fifteen months he is a big healthy boy and this good health I attribute entirely to the use of the Tablets." They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

California Fig Syrup For Child's Bowels

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

A Simple House Dress of Gingham

By Marie Belmont

The season is approaching when every particular housekeeper wants an attractive dress to wear about her duties indoors. The modern trend is for bright effects and gay colors in frocks of this type, and the example above is charming in red-checked gingham.

The square cut neck is flanked at either side by the yoke, and to this the waist is slightly full at the shoulders. Here and there the skirt joins the blouse at the lowered waistline, black wool embroidery imparting a striking note. A slender black patent leather belt finishes the costume.

The same frock may be made up in cotton, crepe or handkerchief linen for dressier occasions.

Its sterling qualities have brought it to the front and kept it there, and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

Melon Growing by Mennonites

Melon Growing as a Commercial Proposition in Southern Manitoba

The Mennonites in Southern Manitoba have paid considerable attention to melon growing and have succeeded in cultivating both watermelons and muskmelons of good quality. Experiments at the Morden Experimental Station, near the Mennonite settlement, show that in hot years melons do well, and prove of excellent flavor, but when the summers are cool they do not flourish. At this station tests have been made in planting in the hot beds and transplanting to the open in comparison with planting in the field. Variety tests have also been made. On the whole the superintendent at the station is able to report satisfactory results. He declares that he sees no reason why melon growing should not be a commercial proposition in Southern Manitoba, especially having regard to the success achieved by the Mennonites, who besides having no scientific knowledge do not exercise a superabundance of care. Muskmelons and watermelons are alike easily grown.

B.C. Increases Lumber Export

The Provincial Minister of Lands reports that the water-borne lumber export from British Columbia in 1921 was in excess of 188,000,000 feet, an excess of about 44,000,000 feet over the record of 1920. A large share of this export went to Japan and China.

Minard's Liniment prevents Spanish Flu

HERMAN KURTZTISCH

"When it comes to eating, working and sleeping, I'm like a different man from what I was a short time ago," said Herman Kurtztisch, 406½ Norris Place, Milwaukee, with the Northwestern Life Insurance Co. in relation to his experience with Tanlac.

"My whole system was about to give way as a result of two years' constant suffering from stomach trouble and I was so run down and worn out I was hardly able to work. I actually dreaded to eat, as after every meal I suffered so terribly from heartburn, and I was so nervous I got little rest day or night."

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I'm firmly convinced I would have had to resign my place. It came to my aid in the nick of time and I am strong for it. Tanlac was worth at least fifty times what it cost me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

To Save the Children

A group of Russia's starving children such as are being saved from death by Canadian contributions.

Russia's government may have starved; but her little children have not. Russia's people, a vast horde, but dimly conscious, if at all, of social responsibility other than that which each man felt for his own immediate family, may have brought added trouble and disorganization to a war-shattered world. Her little children had nothing to do with it, and yet it is the little children of Russia that are faced with the hideous, over-powering brunt of it all. They are not facing it; it is too great for them. In millions they are tottering to the ground to end their short lives of unrelieved horror in one last agonized spasm.

In the famine-stricken provinces of Russia there are, or were, 33,000,000 people. Millions already have died of starvation; Nansen says ten millions more must die. That includes men and women, patient, humble peasants who have had no hand, no thought, in the making of the unspeakable conditions that have swept over their once happy land. These know they must die, are almost content to die, finding in death the end of suffering and the cessation of horror.

But their children—the parents are human beings; if they were mere animals the long protracted death agonies of their little ones would still be unbearable. To most of them there comes no help. The task of feeding their children first and then themselves is too great; they die and their children are alone to wander about the country in quest of something, anything to devour. Little claws that should be the pretty hands of children dig in the ground for roots, except when the ground is frozen, and misshapen little red trees crawl from refuse heap to ruined cottage to see if one small, eatable fragment may not be overlooked.

Again, if they were animals it would be different, and easier. Instinctively they would know how to wrest a living from Mother Nature. But little children must be fed. They must have food found for them, and in Russia there is none, so they must die. Death is not the worst of it. If a peaceful death were all they suffered, it would not be so bad. It is the hideous horror of the drawn-out struggle, and it is helpless little children that are suffering. They are suffering to-day and must continue to suffer to death, unless— Unless the civilized well-fed people of the world hear their awful cry for help, and give that help quickly, it will be too late for countless thousands of children. The call has come to Canada with evidence far too horrible to print. The photographs reproduced herewith merely suggest others, more dreadful, that cannot be published.

Will Canada, land of happy, healthy children, heed the call? The appeal is being made in the hope that she will. The "Save The Children Fund" has opened an office in the Elgin Building, Ottawa and the Canadian people are urged to send their subscriptions now to Sir George Burn, treasurer of the fund at that address. One dollar will feed a child for one month; $500 will feed one hundred children until next harvest.

"He gives twice who gives quickly."

Saved from death by the humanity of those who have already contributed to this fund.
